Muse hands over 362,000 sq ft Leeds distribution centre

Premier Farnell, the development distributor, today announced a further key milestone in the construction of its new state-of-the-art distribution centre in Leeds.

Muse Developments, the developers of Logic Leeds, where the new distribution centre is located, have handed the keys to the building over to the company.

Nick Wilkins, SVP global logistics, Avnet (including Premier Farnell) said: “This is a true milestone in the growth of the Premier Farnell business. We have a great team of motivated and dedicated people working on the project behind the scenes – from those onsite who have literally moved mountains of earth to make this happen, to those who’ve constructed the building.

“We are now focussed on creating a complex network of systems, technology and machinery inside the facility which will become the epicentre of our future business. This work is being undertaken in partnership with SSI Schaefer.”

Construction work began on the high-quality 362,000 sq ft distribution unit at Muse Developments’ flagship Logic Leeds site, by Junction 45 of the M1, in February 2018. The distribution centre project, which will be the largest ever pre-let warehouse development in Leeds, is expected to be fully operational by early 2020.

James Scott, development director with national urban regeneration specialists, Muse Developments, said: “We have worked hard with Premier Farnell to deliver its state-of-the-art distribution unit and are incredibly proud of what has been achieved. This is another significant milestone in the successful Logic Leeds story and it is exciting to celebrate the official opening of the building with such a prestigious tenant.”

Premier Farnell’s building will be situated alongside a number of other high-profile occupiers, including Amazon and the John Lewis Partnership.

Premier Farnell operates as Farnell in EMEA, Newark in North America and element14 in Asia Pacific.
